Notes from the Pastor

Year of the Mass

What's New in the People's parts?

One of the most significant and far-reaching reforms enacted by the Second Vatican Council was the emphasis placed on the full, conscious, active participation of the people in the celebration of Mass, born of renewed awareness that in Baptism all receive a share in the priesthood of Christ.

The Mass lies at the heart of worship, and is an action of Christ the priest and his body the Church. Hence, all who have been baptized are called to participate in the Mass. Our participation is internal and external. Along with attentive listening to God's Word, joining heart and mind with the prayers of the priest; offering to the Father Christ and ourselves in union with Christ; taking part in the common song and postures of the gathered assembly, the People's Part of the Mass are a vital aspect of the full, conscious and active participation to which the baptized are called.

The parts of the Mass prayed by the people remain essentially the same in structure, apart from the option of using the Apostle's Creed in place of the Nicene Creed, particularly during the Lenten and Easter Seasons. Some changes have been made in the language used in the responses, acclamations and prayers of the people. Such changes have been kept to a minimum and made only when necessary to ensure that the translation follows the Latin original more closely than the former version.

While these changes will require an initial adjustment and close attention to the new texts, past experience has shown that people quickly grow used to new language and adapt readily to it.

Next Week:

Why a new translation?
